

Good Food Nation Mapping Workshop: Suggested activities

As part of our engagement with Relevant Authorities, the Living Good Nation Lab has co-produced a sequence of activities that can form the basis an event (or events) to map your Relevant Authority's activities around food. We haven't given set timings since how long is required will vary depending on the number of people, the amount of pre-work you ask of them (see our Mapping Workshop Pre-Meeting Worksheet – add link when available here) and the format of the workshop. However, based on our experience we suggest that it takes a minimum of half a day, or four hours.

Activity	Description	Further details
Activity 1 Mapping existing RA food activities	Builds on pre-meeting work	Carousel format: participants spend 5 mins adding to the information each Outcome and then move on to the next one
Activity 2 How GFN work can complement existing work, pt 1	Key questions to be addressed: 1. What is working well/has worked well (in your RA) that should be continued / enhanced? 2. What has not worked so well/is challenging or difficult to progress that we should consider focusing on in future? 3. What are the opportunities to work more collaboratively to address challenges?	Carousel format: in three groups participants address each question in turn
Activity 2 How GFN work can complement existing work, pt 2	Key questions to be addressed: What are the priorities for action from the range of issues discussed?	Group discussion
Activity 3 Next steps	Facilitated discussion	Group discussion + recording of suggestions
